

SABINE K. FRANCO, ESQ.

CHIEF ESQUIRE
FRANCO LAW FIRM

As Chief Esquire of Franco Law Firm P.C., Sabine Franco works with clients that are in need of legal assistance and/or representation in Business & Real Estate matters. She is dedicated to having unparalleled customer service and working closely with my community of customers to achieve the best possible outcomes. In addition to running Franco Law Firm, she is an Adjunct Professor at Hofstra School of Law where she educates law students on Foundational Lawyering Skills.

Mrs. Franco's business acumen includes drafting and negotiating contracts, including protecting the interest of individuals and entities in business relationships; developing business entities; trademark and copyright; and addressing the complex needs of non-profits and charitable organizations. Additionally, she's had success representing authors, play writers, public speakers, fashion designers, public figures and philanthropists. In real estate, her acumen includes assisting individuals and corporate entities in the lease, acquisition or sale of real property, while educating them on relevant laws so that they can make informed decisions.

Some of her recent accolades include being published twice in "The Suffolk Lawyer", in February 2017 and again in April 2018. Her first article discussed the changes being made to the US Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Agency under Ben Carson and its effects on the country. Her second article covered important considerations for individuals planning to start a real estate investment business.

Sabine is a wife and a mother who likes to spend her spare time with her family participating in outdoor activities and traveling. She is also very active at her place of worship and ministry, UNCNY and helps manage the nonprofit organization, "Marie's Food Pantry", whose mission is to fight hunger in the poorest neighborhoods of Haiti by providing hot meals
